About the Fife Bipolar Group

We meet once a month in Kirkcaldy but welcome people from all over Fife. The main purpose of the group is to offer a supportive environment to those affected by bipolar affective disorder and allow them to talk about and share their experiences with others. To attend is free & you do not need a referral.

We also provide an information service through our website, this monthly magazine & a library of reading material relating to bipolar & mental health. This we hope will help you address the issues that affect you in your life. If you have anything you'd like to talk about or would like to come along to a meeting, please get in touch!

SAMH launches Get Active:

Positive Steps for Mental Health

SAMH, Scotland's leading mental health charity, has launched a new national programme which asks people across Scotland to 'Get Active' to improve their mental health and wellbeing. The campaign invites both young and old to change their destiny and in doing so, leave a positive legacy for future Scots. How? By getting active. The link between physical activity and physical health has long been known, but the link between physical activity and mental health has been less explored, until now. SAMH wants to ensure that everyone, regardless of where they live, their age or income, is aware of ways to improve their mental health by participating in physical activity and sport.

Billy Watson, SAMH Chief Executive said:

"Get Active isn't just another marketing campaign; it's a way of life. For years Scotland has hit the headlines for all the wrong reasons such as high levels of anti-depressant prescribing, poor health, high mortality and appalling diets. It's time for us to turn the tide and become recognised as a nation that takes pride in our physical and mental health."

The charity's message is that in these tough economic times where every penny counts, people can Get Active in a host of different ways that needn't cost much if anything, such as walking to the shops or attending a football game, as well as the more expected methods like going to a gym.

Towards A Mentally Flourishing Scotland

The Scottish Government's new policy and action plan for mental health improvement for 2009 to 2011 – Towards a Mentally Flourishing Scotland - was launched on Thursday 7th May by Shona Robison, Minister for Public Health

This policy demonstrates the Government's continuing commitment to supporting: the promotion of good mental wellbeing; reducing the prevalence of common mental health problems, suicide and self harm; and improving the quality of life of those experiencing mental health problems or mental illness.

Improving mental health and making a step change in how we, as a society, look after our own and others' mental health requires a combined effort at national, local and individual levels. At national level greater emphasis will be placed on providing national leadership. Delivery organisations will continue to work in partnership to offer co-ordinated support for implementation of the action plan.

The role of local government will be to work with Community Planning Partners, Community Health Partnerships and the third sector to offer strategic leadership for mental health improvement and to develop and implement local plans for delivery. In support of this agenda, the Convention of Scottish Local Authorities (COSLA) have said: "Scottish local government recognises that it has a powerful role to play in protecting and promoting good mental wellbeing and preventing mental health problems."

Key roles for the NHS in Scotland will be supporting and delivering local plans in conjunction with Community Planning Partnerships and Community Health Partnerships and embedding mental health improvement into all NHS activity.

The Third Sector also has a significant contribution to make to mental health improvement both nationally and locally, via delivering services which directly or indirectly contribute to mental health improvement and advocating change and improvement.

Finally, the actions of individuals and communities are also central to this agenda. We know individuals do not make choices in isolation from the broader social and physical environment of which they are part: there is a clear role for local partnerships to work with communities to create mentally healthy environments within which individuals and communities are empowered to promote and protect their mental health.

Scotland has done much to lead the way in mental health improvement and has already been internationally recognised for its work. This new action plan explains how we will build on this existing success from now until 2011 and beyond, by focusing on strategic priorities for action as well as on the infrastructure support and coordination which the Government will put in place to help facilitate implementation and support delivery.

Summer Jokes

What did the pig say at the beach on a hot summer's day?
I'm bacon!

Major Premise: Power corrupts;
Minor Premise: Knowledge is power;
Conclusion: Knowledge corrupts.

Abraham Lincoln was accused of being two-faced. Lincoln replied, "If I had two faces, do you think this is the one I'd be wearing?"

Ronald Reagan's most powerful tool was his self deprecating humour. When his advanced age was used against him by Senator Mondale during the 1984 campaign, intentionally misunderstanding he quipped, "I will not make age an issue of this campaign. I am not going to exploit, for political purposes, my opponent's youth and inexperience."

How do you put an elephant in a refrigerator?
Open the door, put the elephant in, close the door.

How do you put a giraffe in a refrigerator?
Open the door, take the elephant out, put the giraffe in,

On a cheerful summer holiday weekend a man walks into the butcher shop that has a sign in the window saying "Ground Sirloin: 29 cents per pound."
"I'm having a cookout this weekend," the man says, "and I'd like 5 pounds of your ground sirloin, please."
The butcher shakes his head and says, "Sorry. I'm all out."
The disappointed man goes down the street to another butcher shop and asks, "How much is your ground sirloin?" , "It's $3.29 per pound."
"Three twenty nine?" exclaims the man. "Just up the street they are selling it for 29 cents!"
The butcher smiles calmly at the gentleman and asks, "Does he have any?"
"No. He's out of it right now."
"Well," says the butcher, "When I don't have any, I can also sell it for 19 cents per pound!"

Simple Steak with Mushroom Sauce

Serves 4 people

- 4 steaks.
- 1 tablespoon of butter.
- 1 tablespoon of olive oil
- 3 cloves of garlic, roughly chopped.
- 1 onion, thinly sliced.
- 250g of button mushrooms, sliced thinly.
- 125ml of white wine.
- 250ml of beef stock.
- 4 tablespoons of cream.
- sea salt and black pepper.

Rinse the dried mushrooms with water and then submerge in a bowl with warm water and leave for 20 minutes. Prepare the steaks by drizzling them with a little olive oil, sprinkle over a generous amount of ground black pepper, cover and set aside. When the dried mushrooms have finished soaking, heat a large pan over a medium high heat and add the butter and olive oil. Fry the garlic and onion for 2 minutes, then add the mushrooms and continue to cook for 5 minutes or until they become soft. Add the white wine, continue to cook and reduce the liquid by half. Then add the beef stock and simmer for a further 2 minutes or until the liquid begins to thicken slightly. Remove from the heat and whisk in the cream until combined. Season with sea salt and black pepper and set aside. Heat a large griddle pan over a high heat and cook the steaks for 2-3 minutes either side for medium rare steak, depending on thickness. Remove the steaks from the pan and allow to rest for at least 5 minutes. Serve immediately.
